ANDERSON VALLEY

2019

2019 Vintage Notes

Favorable conditions in Anderson Valley at the start of the growing season—especially during bud break and flowering—were followed by normal, seasonal weather throughout the year. This led to steady, even ripening and a harvest that occurred at precisely the right time, without any heat spikes. The Pacific Ocean always serves as a moderating influence in the valley, and 2019 was no exception. Grape yields were above average, and quality was exceptional in this ideal vintage.

2019 Cultivar Anderson Valley Muscat

One of the oldest grape varietals in the world, Muscat is defined by its light color and refreshing style. Our Muscat, from the unique microclimate of Anderson Valley in Northern California, shines from the glass with pale straw vibrance. On the nose, notes of lychee, kiwi, Lemonheads, and peach dance in unison. Granny Smith apple, Key Lime pie and custard flow gently across the palate, followed by a subtle sweetness, round mouthfeel and cleansing acid on the finish. Pairs beautifully with brunch dishes like Cultivar SF's Challah French Toast and Breakfast Curry, or savor it Asian dishes like the Pork Belly Bahn Mi.
